

J. C. MARTIN, EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1886

The press of the territory is already reading moral editorial essays to the voters of this territory in regard to the proper selection of candidates for the next legislature, all of which we most heartily endorse, and more too. So far, the recommendations made for the qualities that should be possessed get as far as honesty, purity, industry, etc., etc. While the above are very important qualifications, if the people would select representatives possessing them, with an additional sprinkling of brains and intelligence, the territory would fare better. So long as men are selected who play poker all night and sleep through the sessions in day time, and have to be awakened to vote and then have to enquire which is the democratic side before casting it, we can not expect any very wholesome reforms. In fact, it is an open question whether the territory will not fare better from the hands of an intelligent schemer than from one who is not possessed of sufficient intelligence to vote on a question without being prompted. While the former is liable to sell his vote when opportunity presents, the latter more frequently gives his away with bad results. Both parties should see to it that they select men of intelligence and ability with as much honesty and integrity as can possibly be secured in the market.

The editor of the Tucson Star claims to be in possession of information in regard to the insane asylum, showing "criminal negligence or something worse," on the part of the directors. The only thing developed before the honorary board and in the face enacted by Judge Zulick was a difference of opinion in regard to business matters existing between the directors and Governor Zulick. There was no testimony of any kind to show the board had been guilty of any corrupt or criminal practices, unless it were a crime to deposit money in a certain bank. If the Star is in possession of the facts it claims, it should make a clean exposure of them. Governor Zulick utterly failed to convince the people of this territory that the directors have been dishonest, and the mere insinuation thrown out by the Star is not likely to affect the reputation of these three citizens whose reputation it seeks to blacken in this way. Our citizens will not support or endorse dishonest officials, but as a rule they will not condemn or convict without evidence.

The Albuquerque Journal is waging war on the Pullman Car Company and Western Union Telegraph Co. It claims that they are monopolies that the general government or states must deal with. The people have some rights. These monopolies pay little or no taxes, yet they demand full protection by the law. They are arrogant, domineering and pitiless, and should be made to bow to the majesty of the law. Of the former, it says: "Pullman's Palace Car Company never cuts rates. Two dollars and fifty cents for a seat in a Pullman car during the day time is simply outrageous. That is the charge in New Mexico and Arizona. What say our law makers?"

The boss gold brick swindler, has turned up in Mexico. His name is McCabe and he successfully worked the scheme on Dr. Samanango, one of the wealthiest men in the state of Chihuahua, Mex., and who has been lieutenant governor and is now a candidate for governor, obtaining $5,000. He was arrested and a portion of the money taken from him. On his trial he was acquitted and he now uses the wealthy Mexican for the recovery of $4,000. We can not but admire the man's pluck in staying by his game, and as he is an American would suggest that he emigrate to Massachusetts and run for lieutenant governor on the ticket with Benjamin F. Butler.

A band of Mexican bandits recently killed a prominent and wealthy citizen of a Chihuahua town and then sacked the place, taking $7,000 from the federal treasury and $17,000 in money and goods from several stores, after which they fled to the mountains. There is nothing particularly new or startling about this information, but it is somewhat amusing to read the Associated Press accounts of it as "The Chihuahua Rebellion." Treating Mexican brigands as rebels and Apache outlaws, cutthroats and murderers as warriors are the ridiculous features of a mistaken policy on the part of two great republics.

Judge Martin, of Kansas, has rendered a decision which is of unusual importance. Every person who patronizes the Western Union Telegraph company writes his message on a blank at the top of which it states that the company will not be responsible for mistakes unless the message is repeated at extra expense. Judge Martin decided that this condition was against public policy, and that the company is responsible for mistakes in unrepeated messages.

The work of proselyting for the Mormon church has received a set-back in Switzerland. Agents have been very active in that country during the past few

Mr. Bean, the delegate from Arizona, who by the way is a very sensible, hard working man, and a worthy son of the old Granite state, believes that the only way to deal with Geronimo and other refractory savages out in his territory and New Mexico is to offer a reward for their capture. As the army seems powerless in the emergency he is confident that private enterprise can be made available if proper inducement be held out to undertake the troublesome and dangerous job. The settlers, as a rule, are unable to bear the expense and unwilling to incur the hazard of hunting the Indians. Besides, they could not leave their homes defenseless; but Mr. Bean thinks there is no doubt but what Geronimo could be brought in, dead or alive, if the government is willing to pay $25,000 for his scalp.—Washington correspondence Manchester (N. H.) Union.

If one were to believe the sophomoric reasonings and conclusions drawn in a recent editorial article in the Phenix Gazette that the attorney general's duties, that individual is not entitled to receive any fee for services as an attorney, but must confine himself exclusively to writing opinions for the governor and other territorial officers, for the paltry sum of $1,000. The writer, in that article, like all other articles he has written, greatly overshoots his mark. He gets his coloring so highly overdrawn that the "way-farer, though a fool," can not but see his defects. His attempts to stretch the law, defining the duties of the attorney general, to make him a prosecuting attorney in every county in the territory, is decidedly lame and shows a great lack of legitimate thunder to hurl at his head.

Marion McCann reports in Phenix that Tonto Basin is overrun by about 200 Apaches from San Carlos, who are insolent to the settlers and evidently dangerous. The settlers are holding meetings and gathering themselves together for safety. He thinks there is danger of an outbreak in that direction. If this information is correct the placing of a few troops in this vicinity would be appreciated by the settlers in the Basin. At the present time there is only one company of infantry at Whipple and one of cavalry at Camp Verde. The section referred to is in this county, about 100 miles southeast of Prescott, and was formerly a hot bed for the Apaches. While they appear there every season, no depredations have been committed by them for a number of years.

James Baity, a farmer of Clay county, Ill., residing near Xenia, is the father of twenty-three children. He is 70 years old and has been married twice. His oldest son is 48 and his youngest child is 10 months old. There are but two pairs of twins. Mr. Baity is brother-in-law of two of his own sons; they having married sisters of the second wife. In the same neighborhood with Mr. Baity dwell R. T. Forth, John Forth and Buck Forth. They are brothers. The first has twenty-six children and the other have twenty-three each. Baity and the Forths are well-to-do farmers.

The New York Tribune says: "There are in this country at the present time five socialists who have been members of the German Parliament. Most is one of them. Hasselman, another, lives in some obscure quarter of New York, supported in idleness by his wife, a seamstress. Fritzsche keeps a low dive in Philadelphia. Julius Vahleich, after living on the money of his dupes for a while, saw himself reduced to the necessity of earning a living at his old trade, that of cobbler. The fifth is Reimer, who follows the trade of cigar-making."

General Gordon and Major Bacon, rival candidates for the Governorship of Georgia are stamping the State together. They have had some heated debates, and on Tuesday, got to making insinuations against each other's army record. Finally, the lie was passed, and as both are men of honor, whose courage is not unquestioned, their friends are anxiously watching for the usual challenge to mortal combat.

The Tombstone anti-Chinese league has inaugurated a boycott against John P. Plum, city recorder. Boycotting the police judge is about the best thing the average petty law breaker can do. While no edict announcing a boycott has been promulgated against Prescott's city recorder he has not had a case before him for two months or more.

The Star is trying to frighten the directors of the insane asylum into giving its editor some hush money by claiming to be in possession of some information very damaging to them. It is not likely that the scheme will succeed, as the directors will pay as little attention to the barking of the Star at their heels, as they did to the uke of Governor Zulick, fired at their heads.

When Governor West of Utah talked to the polygamous Mormons about abandoning their defiance of the United States, they jibed him on his secession record. The Governor was not at all backward in the emergency. "Yes," said he, "I did defy and resist the United States, and got so well whipped for it that I advise every one to avoid my example."

Governor Farish, through his mouthpiece, C. Meyer Zulick, has issued an ukase deposing the insane asylum directors from office. Just why the preliminary force of an official investigation, which every eye knows had the judgment rendered before the trial began, should have taken place, is not so apparent.—Citizen.

To Deal With Geronimo.

A telegram from Big Springs, Texas, says: "J. M. Dawson and Col. W. E. Hughes returned yesterday from a trip as far as Old Mexico. Mr. Dawson says that from this side of the Pecos over in Mexico, as far north as Arizona, it is drier than it has been in twenty years. Of the seven million head of cattle in Texas, one-third are in the section visited by the drought. The cattle are dying by thousands for want of water and grass. No rain has fallen since September, and even if it should rain now the cattle would not get fat enough for market this year. A rough estimate places the rate of mortality by thirst and starvation at 900 head per day. Fully 20,000 carcasses cover the plains. The stench as one passes along the Texas Pacific west of here is terrible."

Done With the Mugwumps.

The word is being passed around that the President is done with the mugwumps, and that hence forward the Jacksonian theory is to have a fair trial. A practical illustration of the change of policy was furnished at the treasury department, where several dismissals took place recently. One after another the victims filed into the presence of Assistant Secretary Smith and wanted reasons. "Reasons," retorted the official, "you are republicans and your places are wanted for democrats." The president is being quoted as more willing to make changes than at any time since his inauguration. Recent declarations of the independents and civil service reformers have completely alienated the president from them.

There is a dilemma in the Colorado democratic office holders. Postmaster Speer, of Denver, is on trial charged with perjury, and the new district attorney, Rhodes, who is prosecuting him, is charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, that of dishonorably procuring indictments. He has just been temporarily suspended, and an acting attorney was appointed by the district court to proceed with the trial. The complaint against Rhodes will be placed before the grand jury.

By request of the war department one of the Apache Indians confined at St. Augustine, Fla., was permitted to witness the hanging of a criminal named Walker, at that place, on Friday. Chief Chihuahua was selected, but he showed more refined feeling than was expected by turning his eyes upward to the sky at the total moment. He said "that was no way to kill a man." His opinion has great value, for he has had large experience in the killing business.—Ex.

The Knights of Labor of San Francisco have issued a circular announcing the opening in a few days of a bureau of employment. The circular says: "With the means at our disposal we can say to the workmen of Truckee, the farmers of Sacramento valley, and fruiters of Southern California, give us your contracts and we will supply places now occupied by Mongolians with intelligent white labor."

The attorney general of Kansas has decided that the Police Gazette cannot be circulated in that state without incurring the penalty of the law that "every person who shall print or distribute a paper devoted principally or wholly to the publication of criminal news or pictures, or stories of deeds of bloodshed or crime, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $300."

Northern Mexico is attracting much attention from cattlemen who are being crowded out of Texas and other places. Within the last six months two or three well experienced range cattlemen have secured large ranges in the state of Chihuahua, to which they are bringing their herds from crowded Texas to the amount, probably, of twenty or thirty thousand head.

Stringent laws should be passed against the manufacture and sale of bombs in the United States. The manufacture, sale or even possession of these deadly explosives should be made punishable with death. They are of no utility whatever and the possession of them is prima facie evidence of the possessor being a murderer at heart.

Our contemporary was very "prolix" this morning on the subject of Attorney General Churchill. The attorney general must have been haunting a red flag in the face of the administration. No less than seven articles, or about three-fourths of the paper, were devoted to dissertations on that subject.

Thus far in the history of the country destructive riots have been confined almost exclusively to cities under democratic government. These few exceptions thereto only serve to prove the rule. There is something in Democratic government that breeds contempt of the law.—Cleveland Leader.

The republican party had a handsome majority two years ago for their territorial ticket and with the exercise of proper care and judgment in the selection of their territorial and county tickets this year can elect the former and at least a handsome majority of the latter throughout the territory.

The people of Arizona are perplexed over a grave question, which is nothing more nor less than whether Mr. Zulick is the governor of that territory or a justice of the peace for the trial of officers of the insane asylum.—Albuquerque Journal.

The Courier announces that the recently appointed directors of the insane asylum have all accepted the position.

News, Notes and Comments.

The press of the southern portion of the territory are calling for more troops. Chicago has a preacher worth $250,000. He made his money in stock speculation.

The Territorial Republican Central Committee expect to call the next Convention to meet at Tucson in July.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to promote Lieutenant Greeley to the rank of major. He has certainly earned the promotion.

The Chicago Mail suggests that a monument be erected in the Haymarket Square in honor of the policemen killed by the Socialists' bombs.

Moye Vicks, the handsome member of the Pima delegation in the 12th legislative assembly, has been the hero of a shooting scrape in Los Angeles.

The Tucson Star paints a portrait of its society people from which one would infer that some of the leaders of society in the a. and h. p. were very wicked people.

The grand jury at Albuquerque exonerated W. K. P. Wilson, late cashier of a national bank there, from anything criminal in connection with the bank failure.

General Miles is making it extremely warm for Geronimo and his red fiends, and yet the latter still finds time to ply his vocation of murdering unprotected citizens.

Anarchist Parsons has been discovered in a Tennessee town. He and his co-conspirators against society should be immediately harvested and "gathered to their fathers."

Democratic papers have dubbed the governor the "Jersey short-horn." Whether he is a prolific milker, or whether he is even "built that way," they do not state.

Washington gossips announce that Grover's intended is widow Folsom, aged 44, instead of Miss Folsom, from which we would infer that he had changed his mind on the subject.

At the request of citizens of Phenix, Judge Anderson has reconsidered the vote whereby he declined the office of director of the insane asylum, and has unanimously voted to accept it.

General Lew Wallace says that during the four years he has been at Constantinople he saw the American flag in port only twice, once a man-of-war and once on James Gordon Bennett's yacht.

The administration hasn't used the money in the treasury to pay off the bonds, and so the Iowa greenbackers arraign it in their platform as false to the promises on which it obtained power.

"It takes a thief to catch a thief," says the executive organ this morning. We now have the reason why His Excellency has donned his war paint and gone in quest of imaginary "foragers."

The Minnesota Knights of Labor have purchased 600 acres of land in Crow Wing county, and will establish a cooperative colony. Three families go out at once, and others will follow rapidly.

A Washington mathematician has been figuring up the wealth of the twenty six richest members of the senate, and puts it at $162,605,000. Of this vast amount, he credits the senators from California and Nevada with $130,000,000.

Mr. N. B. Walker, of this city, has been appointed by Governor Zulick a director of the insane asylum. The Tombstone believes that Mr. Walker's character and standing will preclude his acceptance of stolen fruit.—Daily Tombstone.

The "circulation of the American flag in foreign ports" has been temporarily suspended by the Canadian authorities. We shall see whether "democrats in these democratic times will make these foreign citizens respect it as it was under Marcy." It is to be hoped they will.

There is a tight race between George W. Julian, of Indiana, and George C. Gorham, of Nowhere, to see who is the biggest ghost in contemporary politics. If the contest were to stop right now the gate receipts would be divided evenly between the two competitors.—Albuquerque Journal.

The impression that there are very few savings banks in the south is corrected by the Charleston News and Courier, which says there are five in Charleston alone, with deposits amounting to over $3,000,000. In the southern states there are 102 savings banks, with an aggregate capital of about $10,000,000 and deposits of something like $100,000,000.
